Axe Murder Record In Birmingham Growing

WOMEN HACKED TO PIECES BY CLEAVER

One Is Dead of Injuries
And Another Is in Serious Condition

20 DEATHS FROM SUCH ATTACKS

Sixty Dollars Removed From Cash Register of Little Store

(Associated Press)

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Oct. 23.—Birmingham's axe murder record reached a total of 20 today, when Mrs. Frank Romeo died from wounds inflicted by persons who entered the shop and home of Benard Vigilante, her son-in-law last night, at which time Mrs. Vigilante was probably fatally injured by the same axe man.

The assailant of the two women used a meat cleaver. Sixty dollars was removed from the cash register, police reported after the attack.

It was said at the hospital where Mrs. Vigilante was removed that her wounds were of a most serious nature. Jim Taylor, negro, was arrested several hours after the attack upon the women and is held for examination.

Besides 20 deaths from such attacks within the last two and one half years 18 other persons have been injured and recovered.

Numerous arrests have been made in connection with the various attacks but few convictions have resulted. The victims in nearly every case was a small shopkeeper, who was set upon in the night by a person using an axe.

Most of the persons attacked have been foreigners or persons of foreign extraction, police records show.

Criminologists have offered various suggestions in connection with repeated attacks, but all lines of inquiry appear to have led nowhere. In some cases robbery appeared the motive, the records reveal, while in other instances there were no signs of robbery.

The attacks have been most fiendish in execution, the throats of women being slashed in many instances, while the bodies of men and women have been hacked to pieces.

RHINELAND STATE IS EXTENDED TODAY

(Associated Press)

The Rhineland republic movement was extended in some parts of the occupied area today, but seemed to be receding in the districts first occupied.

Berlin maintained the movement has been generally defeated.

The most important new accession of the separatist movement was Duisburg, in the Ruhr, where, according to official message the republic was proclaimed early today and the public buildings occupied.

Dr. Ham. A. Dorten, leader of the previous separatist movement seemed to have thrown in his lot with the proponents of the present venture, as his followers are reported to have hoisted the republican colors on the public buildings at Weisbaden, his home town, where 10 persons were wounded in subsequent rioting.

On the other hand Berlin dispatch report the expulsion of the republicans from Aix la Chapelle, where the present republican movement saw its inception early Sunday. The regime is reported to have gained complete mastery there and also at Muenchen-Gladbach where the separatists had seized control.

Coblenz, which the republicans planned to make their capital, is still in the hands of the old officials this afternoon but the separatists were said to be ready to seek it before the day is over and expect no opposition.

There are conflicting reports regarding the city of Bonn, where the republicans were reported to have seized government offices.

The latest Berlin advices, however, declare the separatists had been defeated there.

CHURCH WORKERS BOYCOTT PAINTERS

Clad in overalls, 17 women spent three days painting the Uniondale Chapel, at East Hempstead, Long Island, while the menfolk of the village stood around. All the feminine workers were members of the Ladies' Aid Society, which declared a strike against the high prices men painters asked to redecorate the church.

WINTER ACTIVITIES
ARE BEGUN AT Y

The winter activities of the Railroad Y. M. C. A. have begun with active preparations for putting the bowling allies in shape, the resumption of the "Family Night" entertainments, the weekly meeting at the Association of the American Railroad Association of car repairers and similar activities.

The carmen met at the building on Monday night, with Thomas Hodson, general foreman of the Louisville and Nashville as their leader and teacher.

Mr. Hodson was assisted by foreman John Moore, Frank Vaughn, secretary of the association and other foremen of the car department.

About 80 men listened to the lessons as explained by Mr. Hodson last night.

The organization of the American Railroads association will meet each Monday night during the entire winter.

The teams to contest on the bowling allies are being lined out and they will be organized in a week or ten days, Secretary Randolph announced.

It is expected a special feature will be made each week of the "Family Night" with short musical programs and attractive pictures. The first of the family entertainments will occur tonight. A large turnout of the members of the Association and their families is expected, stated Secretary Randolph.

CHARGES ARE READ
AGAINST GOVERNOR

(Associated Press)

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Oct. 23.—Testimony given by Dr. E. T. Bynum, former close adviser to Governor J. C. Walton, before the investigation and impeachment committee of the lower read today to the full membership of house of the Oklahoma legislature was the house.

Reading of Bynum's statement to the committee was commenced just before noon, following delays in the impeachment program, caused by transaction of routine business by the house.

Prediction was made that the house will vote overwhelmingly to press some, if not all of the charges, thus bringing them before the senate which would pass upon their advisability before organizing as a trial body.

DIXIE LIMITED IS

SETTLE VISITOR
HERE TUESDAY

Passenger Agent Tells of Development of the System

The constantly increasing South and North travel over the Louisville and Nashville railroad indicates to the mind of Joseph H. Settle, General Passenger agent of the Louisville and Nashville that prosperity has come to stay in the South. Mr. Settle stated at the Union depot this morning, he was satisfied the all Pullman daily train of his system called the "Dixie Limited" to be put on soon, would run continuously for years to come. He said he based his judgment on the record of the Pan-American.

"You know that train will have been in operation a year early in December and it was a financial success from the very first."

Mr. Settle said other reasons he was sure the "Dixie Limited" would be permanent, were the facts that passenger traffic last year over the lines of his company was the largest in history, that the Louisville and Nashville had reaped good profits on all its passenger trains running north and south and the further fact that more business was being done between Northerners and Southerners as the years pass.

Mr. Settle explained that just now the usual lull in passenger travel between the winter and the summer travel was in evidence, but the fact that summer travel had been "phenomenal" and because all southern roads were going to put on additional trains early in December, made it plain that passenger travel was going higher and higher all the while. Mr. Settle stated that the "Dixie Limited" would be put on December 2.

The Passenger Agent explained that of the over 5,000 miles of main line trackage of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad a little over a fourth of it was in the state of Alabama. "So you see," added Mr. Settle, "we are an Alabama Institution." In speaking the electrification of the motive power of railroads, Mr. Settle said, such a change might be wrought any time. He added that coal burning engines as they piled out their black smoke were most attractive to him, that he did not mind the smell of coal smoke, but that he had found the smoke from oil burning engines permeated everything about a train and that oil smoke was most disagreeable to him.

BAPTISTS TO MEET

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Oct. 23.—North Alabama will be well represented at the state Baptist convention to be held in Montgomery in November, Baptist leaders here say.

With Howard College's student body attending in full force as well as delegates from all over the northern part of the state, the representatives are expected to number several hundred.

CANDIDATES MUST STEP ON GAS

Get Going.

Tuesday night Oct. 30th the campaign manager is going to give the public a look at the actual standing of the candidates, so they can tell who is working and who is not. We are going to have a mock finish, just the same as the closing night, but, of course, the prizes will not be given away. This is to show the public who would have won the cars should the contest close Monday night. Now, candidates, step on the gas and let's go.

From now on the candidates will be allowed to publish some of their reserve votes at the rate of 3,000 a day, so that you may keep up your standing with that of the others—that is, the candidates who desire may place their 3,000 above the leaders of the previous list. If you desire to do this, send in some of your reserve vote coupons, sending in the smallest ones first. Do not send in too many coupons—that is, reserve vote coupons—at a time, for the campaign department does not desire to be responsible for too many of your coupons at one time.

It is probably advisable for you to keep near the top these last few weeks, for you will find the support of the public will come easier if you are somewhat near the top of the list.

There are only three more weeks left of the campaign after the present week, so every candidate should make an unusual effort during these closing

TWO UNITS OF LOCAL

WILL REBUILD AT

New Plants Are to Be Erected on Site on Second Street

The ornamental and steel fabricating plants of the Decatur Cornice and Roofing company, just west of First avenue, were destroyed by fire, which is believed to have originated in the forge shop, about two o'clock Tuesday morning.

Henry R. Davis, an official of the company stated this morning that the company's loss had not yet been estimated.

He declared, however, that the burned buildings will be rebuilt immediately on the new site, which some time ago, just south of the Louisville and Nashville main line tracks and Second street, Mr. Davis stated it was not the intention, at present, to construct any buildings on the new site, except those which were burned this morning. It is understood, however, that at some future date the company hopes to concentrate all of its buildings on the new site.

The main office building and the sheet metal department located on the east side of First avenue, were not touched by the flames. Several other buildings, located in the group on the west side of First avenue, also escaped the fire. The pattern shop and draughtmen's office were not burned.

It is believed that the fire started from a forge in the blacksmith shop, and then ignited the acetylene generator. After this happened the flames got under way in a short time. People living on Ferry street saw the light blaze from the doomed buildings, just as the fire department trucks began to arrive. Firemen were working the smoldering ruins of the buildings on the west side of the avenue at 8 o'clock this morning.

The two main departments destroyed, were the fabricating plant, which was built in part two years ago, and completed this spring, and the ornamental iron departments.

The structural steel or fabricating plant's far west end, was still standing this morning, but all the other parts of the building had fallen. The ornamental iron department appeared to be a complete loss. It was reported that in this department there were many thousands of dollars worth of newly made materials all ready for shipment such as door fronts, stairways, bank cages, fire escapes window guards, elevator cages and the like.

In the structural steel department appeared this morning the wrecks of riveting machines, travelling cranes, punches, steam shears and other heavy machinery used in structural steel work.

The draughtsmen were congratulating themselves on their valuable tools being saved, and many of their records, from the flames and falling water.

Get Going.

The campaign remains far too even at this stage of the game. Someone must pull ahead before the close, and the great majority seem to still be running very close together. This week the largest votes of these last four weeks are in force, so every effort should be made to secure just as many votes as possible while these largest votes are in force.

Those who stand well in the campaign must push hard to make their campaign a winning campaign, for it would make you feel pretty badly at the close of the campaign to be beaten by some other candidate by a very small margin. No one can afford to be idle these last few weeks. Push hard and win!

Now is the time that you should be working for all there is in it. This is the time that the winners are going to be made. This coming Saturday the votes are going to decrease, and then the smallest votes will be given of any time during the campaign.

Now get busy and have a good report for this week so that you will be among the leaders. This mock finish will help those who are trying to forge ahead but it is suicide to those who do not want to do anything themselves and who are waiting for their friends to do everything for them. Now is the time for you to step on the gas and

Street Car Service In

Is Suspended

(Associated Press)

NORFOLK, Va., Oct. 23.—A heavy northeast gale which has been lashing the Virginia coast for the last two days, today continued at a 50 mile clip causing heavy damage and forcing shipping not already at sea to remain in port.

The Cape Charles lightship has been blown from her moorings and this morning the principal business streets of this city were a foot under water at high tide.

The wind reached its high velocity last night, when the station at Cape Henry reported the gauge showed 56 miles an hour. The wind forced the tide into the Elizabeth river into the city, and office workers who hurried to work in automobiles in some instances had to wade.

Street car service in the business district was suspended.

Serious inroads were made in the beach between Cape Henry and Willoughby, according to reports received here this morning. During flood tide this morning the seas dashed almost across Willoughby spit, causing considerable damage.

The wind at Cape Henry this morning was reported blowing at 50 miles an hour, while in Norfolk the gauge showed 40. The lowest temperature at Cape Henry was 53 degrees. A heavy mist is hanging over Hampton Roads today.

The gale which has been blowing for several days, has claimed at least two lives among members of the crews of the Atlantic Fleet, R. K. Warren, of the Vestal, was washed overboard and drowned last Wednesday and yesterday Paul R. Howard of the Overton, was washed overboard.

(Associated Press)

DETROIT, Oct. 23.—Formation of a new national political party with Henry Ford as its standard bearer will be undertaken at a national organization conference of all Ford for President clubs to be held here December 12, 13 and 14.

The call for the organization conference was decided upon at a meeting last night of several Michigan Ford clubs. The conference, according to leaders of the movement, will name a date and place for a nominating convention.

The conference call will go out in a few days it was stated by William Kronberg, secretary of the Dearborn "Ford-for-President" club.

It was decided upon, he said, "only after an insistent demand from Ford clubs throughout the country."

The Dearborn club, he said, had been inactive sometime, owing to its inability to obtain from Henry Ford any statement as to whether he would accept the nomination from the party the clubs might organize.

"We virtually were forced into action," he said. "Many of the clubs in other states threatened to withdraw without convention."

Mr. Kronberg estimated the number of Ford clubs now in existence at between 300 and 400. He said he was advised that the organization conference would attract at least 1,000 delegates and visitors.

Sessions of the organization conference, he said, would be held at Dearborn, home of Ford.

JAMES MCCLUSKEY
DROPS DEAD AT DAM

Funeral services for James A. McCluskey, who dropped dead on Wilson Dam, at Muscle Shoals, Tuesday morning, while going on his rounds as superintendent of "Safety First" about the large structure, will be conducted at the home of his son, Marvin McCluskey, 309 Fourth avenue, West, Wednesday morning, by Dr. L. F. Goodwin, pastor of the Westminster Presbyterian church assisted by Rev. A. H. Manly.

The body of Mr. McCluskey, who was well known here, where he had many friends and relatives is expected on an early Southern train Wednesday morning. The deceased is survived by his wife, who was wife of her daughter, Mrs. Henry Drake, at Knoxville, Tenn., at the time of the death of her husband, by a daughter, Mrs. George Warren, at Sylva, Ga., by a son, Decker McCluskey, of Sylva, Ga., by a son, J. T. McCluskey, at Knoxville, by a daughter, Mrs. Henry Drake of Knoxville by a son, Frederick McCluskey, of Florence, and by his son, Marvin McCluskey, of Decatur.

Mr. McCluskey was in his 65th year at the time of his death. He had been employed by the federal government for some time as Superintendent of Safety First on the Wilson Dam at the time death came to him. He was in his usual health up until the last.

pioned their cause in every controversy coming tively and should be re-elected by unanimous consent. "Andy" Patterson stacks up high in the that he stands in the same high esteem of the people of South Alabama.—Florence Times.MR. EDISON CANNOT SEE MR. FORD AS PRESIDENT AT ALL, AND SAYS SOThomas A. Edison continues to "knock" his friend Henry Ford as a presidential possibility.

Ford is all right making automobiles, thinks Edison and he's a good camping comrade or motor trip companion, but as President, Mr. Edison cannot see Mr. Ford at all.These two, Edison and Ford, are cronies. They have been chums ever since each got far enough in worldly goods to take it easy and loaf sometimes. With Firestone, the tire magnate, they have represented the modern "Three Guardsmen," inseparable when they have had time to be together, and on such chummy terms that they would not hesitate to borrow a dollar from each other. And chums, from time immemorial, have had something to argue about, so Ford, Edison and Firestone have found diversion in arguing over the presidential matter.Edison says it would be "spoiling a good man" to make Ford President. Firestone doubtless would agree with him; besides if Ford should by any turn of the wheel of fortune land in the White House, it would mean an end, for four years at least, to the delightful outings the cronies have frequently, to the camping vacations in the woods and to the free and easy discussions they now have over Ford's fitness for the presidency.Perhaps the objections Ford's two chums have to his being president are not entirely unselfish reasons. It may be that they do not wish their friendship interrupted by the formalities that would necessarily surround Mr. Ford as chief executive. In the White House Mr. Ford would not be nearly so easy to reach and "visit" with as he now is. Secret service men always would be around, and office seekers would be in the way.
Messages to Congress would have to be written, and perhaps delivered in person, and there would be the worry of getting rid of Secretary Weeks and other members of the cabinet who do not have the same ideas about things as Mr. Ford has.

Then too, if Mr. Ford is made President, what would become of the Ford development of the Muscle Shoals project? As President he would be unable to take over the project and carry out his great plans for an industrial city in the Tennessee Valley greater than any such the world has ever known.It would be spoiling a good man to make Ford President, says Edison. It also would be spoiling a good project for Southern development, and a good chance to give the farmers cheaper fertilizer, he might have added. If Ford gets Muscle Shoals project he will have enough to do to carry out his plans in connection with it, and he would be able to do more for the people as a manufacturer of cheap fertilizer and a promoter of hydroelectric power at Muscle Shoals than he could be as chief executive. And if Mr. Ford does not get the Muscle Shoals project he still will have his hands full, for automobiles and tractors are becoming an increasingly imperative need, and he knows how to make them and has proven his willingness to sell them at a reasonable figure.Mr. Edison, who is something of a success in life himself, doubtless knows what he is talking about. He would regret seeing Mr. Ford made President for he thinks it would be a bad thing for Mr. Ford, and besides, he and Firestone would lose a chum who now is companionable but who would be hemmed in by red tape and formalities so that they could seldom reach him.—Anniston Star.A SERIOUS VIEW REGARDING WILD LIFE IN AMERICAAmong other valuable accomplishments of the annual convention of the American Legion just closed in San Francisco was the taking of a firm stand for the conservation of the wild life of the United States. Provided every Legion member takes the action of his organization seriously and seeks ways and means for the preservation of the birds of the air, the fish of the streams and the few remaining wild animals, there will be a great change of sentiment in this country in the next few years regarding our duty to save the wild life of America.Sufficient public sentiment exists to have enabled our law makers to provide laws for the conservation of American wild life, but the mere existence of proper laws for any needed program of reform and improvement is not enough. Laws are not self-enforcing. There may be sufficient legal protection in every state in the union for every wild bird, every wild animal and every fish, but unless the people at large have a mind to obey such laws and to cause them to be obeyed, little real protection will be afforded American wild life.It is past belief that those charged with the enforcement of the game laws should be negligent in their enforcement, but it often stated as a fact that there is much neglect in prosecuting those who are believed to violate the game laws whenever they feel so disposed. If the average citizen will take as serious a view of the present condition of wild life in America as does Past Commander Owsley of the American Legion, in a few years time our forests will be stocked with game and our streams filled with fish.

Mr. Owsley says:

Our immense treasure of national resources must not be wasted in profligate expenditure for individuals for profit and benefit accruing to groups and combinations of capital that sometimes may acquire and keep vast holdings against the public policy and common good. Let us then inaugurate and freely support an extensive program for the conservation of our natural resources; reclamation of waste lands, where homes, farms and expressions of individualism can be built and established; preserve and give fullest protection to our national forest reserves and parks and the development of our waterways, rivers and canals.The wild animal, so distinctly a part of American history, is fast passing out, so much so we may say it is nearly extinct. Our bird life has been slaughtered and destroyed on so extravagant a scale that they are rarely to be seen; our streams, brooks, rivers and lakes, once filled with fish, are stagnant or fished out and empty. Attention wisely given to protection of forest and field—closed season for animals and birds—encouragement to the state and nation for their breeding and propagation and the restocking of all our waters with fish, will in a large measure give needed employment to numerous workers, and draw to the Legion the acknowledgement from right-thinking men and women of our conflicting desire for unselfish labors.New York Letter

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—In this day of supposed scepticism and rationalism the old superstitions still flare into new life, it seems. Thirteen is just as dreaded a number as in its earliest days of its hold of people's fears. It even appears to be growing in power here in New York. The latest social-commercial enterprise to come into being is the "Thirteen Club" not as one might fancy, an organization of thirteen members formed to defy the superstition, but of personable men and women available at a last minute's call to go out as dinner guests when unexpected occurrence leaves a hostess with thirteen at her table. Such a club has flourished in Paris for years, but this is its first appearance here.Thirty-seven miles of carpet were laid in one of Manhattan's new hotels and 25,000 pounds of horsehair were used to stuff its mattresses. For the pillows necessary for the equipment, 90,000 geese were killed, sufficient to make a procession two miles long."The Dancers," with Richard Bennett in the leading role was so well heralded from its out-of-town try-out tour that we have been looking forward with some eagerness for it to arrive here. The story sounds like old-fashioned melodrama, with its young Britisher who comes into a title after some years spent running a saloon in British Columbia and the young London girl of good family to whom he was true all that time but who couldn't stand up herself under the test of waiting, and finally the girl of the frontier dance hall. It is melodrama, but so well written and well acted that it never becomes crude or unreal. Aside from Mr. Bennett, excellent work is done by Florence Eldridge and Kathlene MacDonald if one must particularize in so large a cast.Long Island children will never be allowed to toss pebbles about in any peace again. Watchful parents will grab everyone who glitters and break up the game. Down at Southampton the other day, the children of George Richardson had a nice time with a glittering little stone until it aroused their parents' interest. It was taken away from them to be appraised and turned out to be a $3,000 diamond."Better than the pyramids" is what aeologist, called our Woolworth building upon his arrival here and his first gave perfectly good cash to this young man in return for cheeks which turned out to be no good at all. Everyone seemed willing even anxious, to help him out by cashing a check when he needed money, even though none of them had ever laid eyes on him before.An artist must have optimism. A young singer I know needed one more year's training in Europe. She did not have the wherewithal; her only possession was a lease on a charmingly furnished house. Six weeks ago, she put it in the market and at the same time engaged sailing for October 20.

Sure enough, she begged a tenant on the eighteenth, and makes her objective.Thomas C. Lackey

ORDER OF PUBLICATION.

Maud Murphy vs. James F. Murphy.
Circuit Court, Morgan County, Alabama, in Equity.In this cause, it appears to the Register, from the affidavit of complainant, that the residence and post office address of the defendant, James F. Murphy, are unknown, although diligent effort has been made to learn the same, and that said defendant is over 21 years of age. It is therefore ordered by the Register that publication be made once a week for four consecutive weeks in the Decatur Daily newspaper published in Morgan County, requiring said defendant to plead, answer or demur to the bill in this cause by November 2, 1923, or in thirty days thereafter a decree pro confesso may be taken against him.This October 2, 1923.

The first step to beauty is a clean skin—a skin that is clean to the depths. Lucile Latelme, a famous Parisian beauty, taught me how to get it.The method is a liquid cleanser. I call it my Facial Youth. It contains no animal, no vegetable fat. So it cannot grow hair on the face. It cannot assimilate in any way with the skin. But it penetrates every pore.
When I wipe it off, all the dirt and grime, all that clogs the skin comes with it.You may think you can clean your skin without it, but you don't. Apply

Women Need Swamp-Root

Thousands of women have kidney and bladder trouble and never suspect it.

Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease.

If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased.

Pain in the back, headache, loss of ambition, nervousness, are often times symptoms of kidney trouble.

Don't delay starting treatment. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a physician's prescription, obtained at any drug store, may be just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions.

Get a medium or large size bottle immediately from any drug store.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper—Adv.

The deceased is survived by his wife and Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Roberts of Pontotoc, Miss. Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Norris of Austinville, Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Milam of Flint, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Miller and W. E. Bountwell of Decatur, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Moles of Pittsburg, Pa., Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Crowe of Sheffield, Ala., and Miss Ruby Milam.

Funeral services will be conducted from the residence Wednesday at 1:00 o'clock. Interment will follow at Chestnut Grove.

Man and Woman Are Found Dead

(Associated Press)

DENVER, Colo., Oct. 23.—Mrs. George A. Bryan, 30 years old, wife of W. S. Bryan, assistant fire chief of Denver and A. J. Sherie, 50, were found slain in the front yard of the Sherie home, near Morningside, Colo., early today.

The police are puzzled and declare they have not yet ascertained whether it was a case of double murder or murder and suicide.

Men of Central Baptist to Banquet

Large numbers of the men of the Central Baptist church are expected to meet at the Colonial building tonight when they will be entertained by the woman's Missionary Union of that church. The evening will be opened with a banquet, served by a committee of the union.

Charles H. Eyst is to serve as toastmaster, and addresses are to be made by prominent leaders of the Central Baptist church setting forth the proposed program of activities for the church during the coming winter. The evening's exercises are to begin at 7 o'clock sharp, and will be concluded about 10 o'clock p. m.

Stray Bits of Wisdom.

If thou has fear of those who command thee, spare those who obey thee.—Rabbi Ben Azai.

Funeral Is Held For J. P. Harkins

Funeral services for J. P. Harkins were conducted this afternoon at Chattanooga, Tenn.

Mr. Harkins was connected with the Tennessee River Navigation Co., with headquarters in Decatur. He was taken ill last Friday with pneumonia and died at a local hospital early yesterday morning. The body shipped to Chattanooga yesterday afternoon.

He is survived by his mother, Mrs. H. W. Harkins, two sisters, Mrs. E. W. Hester and Mrs. C. A. Pearce, all of Chattanooga.

CAMPUS BEAUTIFIED

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Oct. 23.—Work of beautifying the Birmingham-Southern College campus is underway, the quadrangle formed by the principal buildings being sodded and paved with a driveway being laid. Building also continues at the institution with a new $125,000 chapel church, and a new $20,000 president's home under construction.

Remedy for Curl in Rugs.

The curling up of the edges of rugs is caused by the way in which they are woven. A remedy for this is to take two strips of very thin wool, each about three inches long, and sew on the underneath part of the rug at the corners. Let these remain for about a month, when the rugs will have conformed to the floors. Or rubber corner tips may be purchased in a furniture store.

Useful Walking Stick.

A curious custom obtains in some portions of Spain in regard to betrothals. A young man who looks with favor upon a beautiful senorita, and wishes to gain her hand, calls on the parents for three successive days, at the same hour of the day. At the last call he leaves his walking stick, and if he is to win the desired bride the cane is handed to him when he calls again.

Meaning Clear.

Richard had been ill, and although better now, was still in bed and required constant nursing. He called to his mother, but she happened to be busy and could not come, whereupon the lad began to sob as if his heart would break, walling over and over again, "Nobody loves me but myself; nobody loves me but myself."

Coal in Consumption.

Carbon is the preponderating element of coal, and in order to burn one pound of pure carbon there is required 11.6 pounds of pure air. Imagine a column of air one inch square extending 40 miles into the sky and you will have a good idea of the amount of air required to burn a single pound of coal. A pound of coal would occupy a column one inch square and only three feet high.

DRAKE-STINSON.

Miss Virginia Nell Stinson, and Mr. W. Scott Drake of Falkville surprised their friends by motoring on Saturday, October 20th to Pulaski, Tenn., where they were married in the presence of a few relatives and friends.

Congratulations and good wishes are being extended to them by their wide circle of friends.

BANQUET ON SATURDAY EVENING.

One of the most delightful parts of the Christian Endeavor meet which took place Saturday and Sunday was the large banquet given on Saturday evening by the hostess church, the Westminster Presbyterian.

About seventy were served a tempting menu.

The decorations were carried out in Halloween colors and ideas, and among other things enjoyed were songs, speeches and C. E. yells.

BIRTHDAY PARTY.

On Saturday afternoon from 2:30 to 4:30 o'clock, Mrs. Zeno Bailey entertained at a party for her little son, Thomas as guest of honor, that day being his fifth birthday. It was given at their lovely new home on Sherman street.

Thirty eight of his friends gathered to play with him and a number of indoor games were enjoyed.

Candy, ice cream and cake were served late in the afternoon and Mrs. Bailey was assisted by Mrs. Roy Billings, Miss Margaret Harrison and Miss Mary Augusta Bibb.

MISSIONARY SOCIETY CENTRAL METHODIST CHURCH.

The Missionary Society of the Central Methodist church met Monday afternoon with Mrs. E. S. Johnson and Mrs. J. B. McDougald as joint hostesses. The gavel fell at three o'clock and the president, Mrs. L. C. Mayes, opened the program with business followed by the devotion led by Mrs. J. W. Burgess. Dr. George A. Harris launched the movement for community work by the society as one of its efforts in a much needed work in the community. The organization grasped the opportunity to broaden its scope of work.

During the social hour that followed light refreshments were served.

Mr. and Mrs. H. K. Wiggins expect to leave about the first of November to make their home in Birmingham. While living here, they have made a wide circle of friends who regret to hear that they are leaving.

The Cotaco Literary club will meet on Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. Ike Scheer as hostess at her home on Jackson street.

MISSION MEETING.

A very delightful meeting of the Westminster Missionary Society was held with Mrs. J. W. Thornton on Monday afternoon.

The most important part of the meet was the appointment of delegates to the State Synodical at the Independent Presbyterian church in Birmingham, on November 1st, and 2nd as follows: Mrs. Thomas V. Harrison, Mrs. E. C. Payne, Mrs. L. F. Goodwin and Mrs. Hal Mullen.

Mrs. Brad Bibb of Belle Mina, is spending a few days with her daughter, Mrs. Zeno Bailey.

Mrs. Warren Gardner has returned from an extended visit to relatives and friends in Harriman, Knoxville and other points in Tennessee.

Mrs. A. E. Humphrey will probably leave the latter part of the week for a visit to St. Louis, Mo.

Mr. and Mrs. Soyl Dubose and Thomas Jones, of Huntsville were the guests of Dr. and Mrs. L. F. Goodwin during the Christian Endeavor meet here.

Mrs. W. E. Todd has returned from a months visit to her daughter, Mrs. Blanche Hudson in New York City.

Mrs. Guy Nelson, Mr. and Mrs. James Walker, Miss Elise Thompson, Miss Mecca Martin, Miss E. Loudon, and Rev. Thomas Urst, of Athens, were here to attend the Christian Endeavor Convention.

Miss Mary Tyson, of Montgomery, Junior Worker, spent the weekend here and left Monday to go to Huntsville for a few days work in the Junior Societies.

Miss Mary Augusta Bibb returned home to Belle Mina on Sunday after a few days visit to her sister, Mrs. Zeno Bailey.

Mrs. Chester Sartor is spending several days in Birmingham.

Mrs. Charles Pfaff is spending this week with her mother, Mrs. Parker in Birmingham.

Mrs. Inez Martin has gone to Birmingham to reside much to the regret to her many friends here.

Mrs. Ben Stewart and daughter, will leave Wednesday for Birmingham, where they will join Mr. Stewart to make their home there.

Mrs. Browning returned home Monday from a weeks visit to Huntsville.

FACULTY TO BE ENTERTAINED.

The faculty of the Central schools will be entertained on Friday afternoon by the Parent-Teachers Association at the home of Mrs. L. P. Troup.

At this time they will be given a rare treat in that Mrs. Asa Rountree, of Birmingham, who is visiting in the city, will address them. A musical program also will be given.

P. T. A. MEET.

The Parent Teachers Association of the Decatur High school held a very enthusiastic meeting on Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock when the attendance was one of the largest in the history of the association.

Mrs. W. C. Bailey, chairman of the Library Committee, reported that their work was begun but they were not ready for a full report yet. Mrs. S. H. Malone, chairman of the membership committee reported some new members and plans for interesting other mothers.

Miss Lee of the Domestic Science Department gave a list of articles needed in that department.

Many plans were discussed for raising money and it was agreed that at present the members would make and sell candy on every Thursday. In addition an entertainment will be given during the Thanksgiving season. All are looking forward to the opening entertainment to be given in the auditorium of the High school.

Miss Pearson's first grade and Mrs. Trimble's fifth grade tied for the pennant.

Miss Dora Wade, cashier in the office of the Metropolitan Insurance company, has returned after a two weeks vacation.

Miss Trixie Scheer, a popular teacher in the public schools some years ago, has accepted a position as teacher in the Central schools. Miss Scheer taught in Cincinnati last year.

Miss Mary Chapel Rogers left last week to take charge of the schools at Fowler Hill.

Mrs. Ben Rowe will move next week to her home on Fifth Avenue, South.

Mrs. Asa Rountree, of Birmingham is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rountree.

Mrs. R. E. Martin has returned from a visit to Birmingham.

Mrs. R. B. Mangrum will leave this week for a visit to her daughter, Mrs. Thomas M. Gordon in South Alabama.

Mrs. Zeno Bailey and son, Thomas will spend this weekend with relatives in Mooresville.

Lillian Did Not Finish Telling About the Book.

"WHERE did this thing come from?"

Lillian, with an airily contemptuous gesture held out to me the book which had occasioned me such mental anguish when I had read it, and puzzled over the inscription evidently to Dicky which had adorned its title page.

"It's a book Dicky brought home the other night."

"Did he tell you anything about it?"

"No—but I saw him tearing out the title page when he thought I wasn't looking."

She looked at me keenly.

"Are you sure he didn't know?" she asked cryptically, even while she turned to the front of the book and gazed thoughtfully at the mutilated page.

"That isn't exactly like the Dicky-bird," she mused. "Whether he brought it home intentionally or not, he ought to have his neck wrung. The way I feel now, I could have the job with scientific despatch. Have you read the thing?"

"Most of it," I acknowledged miserably.

"Especially all descriptions of the hero," she remarked with a sudden grin which heartened me without my knowing why. "Now let me impress something upon your alleged mind. There's nothing in this thing at all—that is nothing for you to—have you a silence cloth for both these tables?"

Dicky and Marion Interrupt.

For an uncomprehending instant I stared at her in amazement at her sudden irrelevant question, and the defiance approaching a slight-of-hand trick with which she transferred the offending book from her hands to the chair beside her. Then Dicky and Marion burst into the room, and I realized that her quick ears had warned her of their entrance.

"Don't you dare put one of those things down in here, Dicky-bird," Lillian cried, as Dicky with his usual impudently began to scatter the bulging parcels in his arms, parcels which from long experience of his little way, we knew contained all sorts of indecencies and absurd things for Marion. "We're all ready for company, we are, and if you don't watch your step, you'll find yourself in a corner behind the door with your face to the wall for the evening."

He made a rebellious grimace at her, but he picked up the things, nevertheless. I never have known him to disregard an ultimatum of Lillian's. But with a sudden remembrance of the havoc he would make in the kitchen to which he was retreating, I intervened.

"Let me take the things, Dicky," I coaxed. "It's time you were to meet Edwin and Harriet, anyway."

"By Jove, it is!" he exclaimed with a glance at the mantel clock. "Marion, you were entirely too fast."

Advice to Girls

Diary of a Fashion Model

She Chats About a Cleverly Planned Evening Costume.

"I DO like to see costumes which show evidence of careful planning," Haidee remarked out of a clear sky.

"That's a subject Pam and I were discussing this morning," I told her. "I should have been there, because I certainly appreciate such things," Haidee returned.

"We were saying that so often the women who have comparatively little to spend on clothes are the ones who are best-dressed," I told her.

"I hardly agree," Haidee objected.

"Why not?" I asked.

"Because if you know that a woman has lots to spend, and she is not well-dressed, you comment upon it," she told me. "On the other hand, of course, there are many women whom you notice for their smartness, whom you probably

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 24.

Rather unfavorable conditions are prognosticated from this day's transit and mutual aspects. According to the latter, there may be peculiar social conditions, with friends proving erratic. Beware of false positions or the possibility of misrepresentation. In business the same menace exists, accentuated by the contributory influence of Luna and also of Saturn. The latter, in an adverse place, urges the necessity for giving careful attention to the health. Those in the employment of others should be careful not to offend those in authority. Be slow in attempting change.

Those whose birthday it is are under somewhat unfavorable augury for the year. They should care for the health, guard against deception and be careful not to jeopardize their positions if in the employment of others. A child born on this day should be trained in courage,

"That is very true, Miss Philosophy," I returned. "I'm sure I could weep over those women who never have to consider price, and still don't manage to look even passing well."

"My point really is that anyone can dress remarkably well on a rather slim purse, if they only go about it right," Haidee said.

"It is the details that count," I added with a smile.

"I'm thinking of Miss Dorris, who comes in here to Madame's shop occasionally," Pam continued.

"I saw her at the theater the other night, and heard her say she was going to a dance later," Pam said. "She was gowned beautifully."

"What was she wearing?" I asked.

"A very simple gray chiffon frock," she told me. "Thin pin-tucks went cross-wise through the bodice, and the skirt had a pleated section in the front and back."

"Sounds easy enough for anyone to achieve," I commented.

"Oh, it wasn't the dress altogether," Haidee said. "It was everything."

"For instance?" I queried.

"She wore adorable little wreaths of pastel flowers in her hair," she said. "And there was a matching wreath of flowers at her girdle."

"She has lovely hair and a slim waist, so they were well-placed," I said approvingly.

"But the smartest note was her bag and slippers," Haidee added.

"What were they?" I asked.

"Her bag was a fluffy little thing made mostly of coral ostrich feathers," she told me. "And her little slippers were coral color and silver brocade."

"The ensemble sounds most effective," I said.

"She was by far the most attractively gowned person I saw at the theater," Haidee assured me.

"And all because she takes the time and thought to plan outfits that will look well," she added.

"I said, 'The bag and slippers, you mention will doubtless go with any number of frocks.'"

"The moral is to think your costumes out carefully before you get them," Haidee assured me.

WINIFRED BLACK WRITES ABOUT Coyotes and Moonlight

Copyright, 1923, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Winifred Black

HOW long since you have slept or tried to sleep out in the open with the full moon for company, and all the coyotes in California giving tongue in the wild hills?

It is a strange experience and worth-while—for those who love to step out of the commonplace once in a while and remember for a few hours what a great universe it is that swings in a kind of rhythmic measure to and fro in the sunlight and in the starlight and in the silver magic of the moon.

Eleven o'clock, and all the countryside is wrapped in sleep. The windmill on the next farm is like a tall specter with his arms outstretched, making great shadows that are like a wavering cross upon the ground.

Night in the Open

The rows of eucalyptus on the highway shiver and tremble in the light breeze like so many picturesque beggars adjusting the ragged cloaks that were once royal raiment of purple and silver.

The great oaks in the meadow below stand firm and steady—and the shadows that they make are round and serene.

On the horizon the great redwoods stand aloof—and you know that at their roots the season has laid a carpet of fragrant green and brown, inches thick and as soft as the softest down.

Between you and the redwoods are the great valley and the sweep of the rising hills.

How good it is to forget it all, here in the healing calm of the broad valley by moonlight.

Hark! what wild sound is that?

It comes from the top of the mountain—no, now it is sweeping down the canyon there on the edge of the valley. Now it follows the course of the river—how it echoes and re-echoes on the hills. It is as if a thousand yelling demons were suddenly let loose.

Who unlocked that dark and hidden door? Who loosened the chain and set free the souls of the damned to tear across the sheltering earth upon a night like this?

"UL-UL-UL," high like a scream, shivering like a shudder, as cruel as the laugh of a hyena, as terrifying as the roar of the lion. What is it they do there in the moonlight in the clefts of the brooding hills?

All the dogs in all the farmhouses are awake and giving tongue. They know well enough that the wild demons of the woods and of the hills are abroad.

The deer know it too, poor things! It is their night of peril and of terror.

What proud stag do you follow, you screeching fiends there in the night—what timid and gentle doe, what terrified younglings do you track to their shelter and tear to pieces with your cruel fangs?

"UL-UL-UL"—what a wild call to cruel sport!

With Cruelty and Cunning

Bark, honest watchdogs—call to one another from farmyard to farmyard, so that the friends there in the hills may listen and feel the chill of their own terror in their own veins.

The wild dogs of the valleys and the mountains—the coyotes. They are abroad to-night in all their cruelty and their cunning.

A bare-footed friar, in orders of grey.

So he called one of your number here in California years ago, the man of genius who never touched the meanest subject without laying upon it the accolade of his inspiration.

It is no friar who is your day-time disguise, and now we know you for what you really are—coyote—when you and your slinking brethren follow the deer, and the moon is at the full, and the months of harvest are nearly over.

It is not so quiet and so serene and so peaceful after all—is it, ye of the gentle tribe that are the prey of these wild and cruel dogs?

"UL-UL-UL"—it is a relief when the moon sinks behind the hills and the grey light announces that the sun will soon appear.

For then the coyotes slink back to their dens and the wild canaries and the lark and the little brown thrush begin to tell each other in the trees how they trembled to hear the wild cry of the wolf pack in the night.

Fair company, the silver moon, gracious and enchanting—but what a train of wild courtiers she rouses from their fierce dreams!

HOME-MAKING HELPS

"Everything About the House Helps to Make the Home"

By WANDA BARTON

Book-Shelves Which Add to the Dignity of the Room.

THE decorative value of books is not always appreciated even by those who own and value them for other reasons. More and more, however, the interior decorator is inclining to the built-in cases, or shelves, rather than the set book-cases for their keeping, and certainly excellent effects are achieved by building in the shelves in the places where they add to the homeliness of the room.

The built-in cases have the finish of the woodwork of the rooms, so they sink into the wall space in a way that gives a permanent though decorative appearance. In the average home the books are scattered about the house, stacked in without the least thought as to their appearance or reading value.

Where the house has no room for a formal library, the living-room must be made the home of the books. One unusual arrangement, seen in a living-room of rectangular shape, is worth a description.

At one end of the room, narrow shelves were built at the two sides running up to the ceiling, where they were finished by a moulding of the woodwork. The two upper shelves ran entirely across the room, while the lower shelves were a flat, close-cut off the length in appearance, and thus did away with the need of a sideboard.

A door is an ugly thing in itself opening into a room, but if it bears book-shelves its ugliness is disguised. This is so easy a thing to do, depending solely on a well-built door and powerful hinges, that it should be done more frequently, especially in places where every inch of space counts.

Under a window-ledge and at the sides of the window-frames are excellent places for books. The shelves deepen the recesses and allow for a seat, which look very attractive. Under the seat there is always room for the monthly magazines that collect so rapidly and look so unsightly after their first freshness is worn away. The lined seat top may be placed to show the closet beneath, and doors may be used in front, or just open shelves beneath may be worked out for the magazines.

YOUR HEALTH

Physical Effort Brings Health and Long Life

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.,
United States Senator from New York,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

A FEW days ago I read a remarkable editorial from which I quote:

"Look at the sleeping, mangy, fat and dull animals locked up in zoological gardens. Their meat is killed, cut up and handed to them. That means 'no need to work' for them and they show it. What caging and false feeding do to wild animals, a life of sloth and self-indulgence does for human beings."

There is no doubt that many a father is wearing himself out by overwork in order that his children need not work at all. How foolish this is!

In the editorial I have quoted is Andrew Carnegie's story about the imaginary old Scotch deer-hound. This dog spent his whole life hunting deer. He raced through forests, over plains and across gulches to catch deer.

At last, at the end of his life of hard work, the old deer-hound decided he didn't want his children to work so hard for their venison as he had. So he built high fences around a great park, which he filled with deer. Turning his puppies into the enclosure, he said to them, as he closed his eyes in death:

"You need not work as I have done. Here are the deer all locked up for you. When you are hungry, help yourselves."

At a ripe old age the deer-hound passed on to his reward, but his puppies grew up to be fat, worthless dogs, and speedily died of the mange and other troubles.

I realize that men do not work and slay beasts to make money for their children. Most of them live this way because they love the game of life. They like to fight for wealth. They glory over the hurdles overcome and the financial victories won. Some of them live for gold alone.

Unfortunately this game does not end with the death of the original player. As a result of his efforts, so much wealth has been accumulated that the descendants of this man need never work at all.

Let me warn the men and women, the boys and girls, who can look forward to a life of ease, softness and self-indulgence that their muscles, weak hearts, frail blood vessels and abnormal nerves.

The individual cannot buy health and long life. Health and long life are won by physical effort. They are won by your own physical effort.

In Strasburg they shut geese in a pen and forcibly feed them till they die, which they do very quickly. The dead geese are found to have fat livers, which we eat as pate de foie gras.

If you want a pate de foie gras liver, live like a Strasburg goose. If you don't live right you ate a goose anyhow, and you might as well be that kind of goose.

DAILY READER. Q.—What can I do for callous places on my feet?

A.—Apply warm linseed oil at night, and in the morning scrape away the dead skin. This should help you.

V. W. Q.—Will you kindly suggest some remedy for chapped lips?

A.—Apply camphor ice or a good ointment to your lips each night before retiring. This will help your condition.

S. S. Q.—Can an X-ray determine the presence of appendicitis and, if so, how would the indications appear?

A.—Yes, an X-ray would show the presence of an affection of the appendix. The doctor who takes the picture will explain the indications.

HEROINES OF HISTORY

Significant Incidents in the Lives of Famous Women

By MARK STUYVESANT

The Woman Who May Be the First American Saint.

ONE of the most beloved heroines of America's history—though her memory has left only a calm and beautiful impress with nothing of spectacular interest on the nation's history—is perhaps to become the first native saint of the United States.

In the Vatican at Rome an illustrious papal commission is investigating the claim to sainthood of Mother Elizabeth Anne Seton, the brilliant, pious, and thoroughly American woman who founded the branch in this country of the Sisters of Charity.

It was in 1774 that a baby daughter came to the home of the distinguished Richard Bayley, first professor of anatomy at Columbia College—now Columbia University—in New York City.

The baby grew to lovely girl and young womanhood. By birth an aristocrat, she moved in the highest social circles of her time. Yet she was a most devoted member of the Anglican church, and more than all it was her love for a plain silver crucifix.

When she was twenty she was married in St. Paul's Church to William Magee Seton, and had several children. Then, because of her husband's illness she went for a long stay with her family in Italy. Friends there converted her to the Roman Catholic faith.

Many sorrows awaited Elizabeth Anne Seton upon her return to America, one of the greatest being the death of her husband.

Immediately afterward she founded a Catholic girls' school in Emmitsburg, Maryland, near Baltimore. Though not at that time a nun she wore a religious costume like that of the sisters of St. Vincent de Paul.

A few years later Mrs. Seton sent her daughters to France to learn and bring back to Emmitsburg the rules of the St. Vincent de Paul order so that she might found a branch of it here.

Napoleon refused to permit them to enter the country. But their indomitable mother, finally managed to establish the branch at her school in Emmitsburg, and much against her will she was made Mother Superior.

Besides being a brilliant executive, Mother Seton was described by writers of the time as a "soul afire with the love of God."

The society now numbers more than six thousand members.

If Mother Seton is declared worthy of being a saint, two gorgeous and beautiful ceremonies will take place in Rome, separated, perhaps, by several years.

The first is the beatification in St. Peter's. After some time has passed the Pope and cardinals will officiate at the canonization ceremonies. For this St. Peter's will be illumined and hung with rich tapestry upon which the arms of the Pope and the United States will be embroidered in gold and silver.

She Founded a School.

ABOUT MEN IN GENERAL

No gentleman is ever too busy to be polite.

Aggressive men sometimes acquire reputations as knockers.

We feel sorry for the poor man whose wife talks in her sleep also.

The best way to convince a woman is to let her go ahead and do it and regret it.

Sometimes an old man who seems as spry as a young one will say he feels so.

An extremely polite man frequently succeeds in making the other men feel awkward.

A man could make money with five fingers if he didn't have ten for it to slip through.

Whatever a man's air castle is, he probably wouldn't like it very well when he got there.

There is always an opportunity waiting for the man who wants to be a friend in need.

The trouble with a great many men is that they expect a month's vacation every time they do a day's work.

Men might be more gossipy if it were safe; though most of them are imperfect enough to be charitable.

Man wants but little here below, but when he fails to get it he howls just as much as if he wanted the earth.

A conceited man should visit a cemetery and realize how many truly great men have died without the world shutting down.

The man who can be happy with what he has is infinitely richer than the man who has to wait for what he may or may not some day get.

SOME WISE CRACKS

The wise champion knows that his conqueror isn't far away.

One minute of folly can cause a lifetime of regret.

It takes a wise fish to grow into a big one.

The canned article that goes quickest is a dog's tail.

Women invariably speak of an unmarried minister as talented.

Love may be blind, but it usually manages to find an eye-opener.

The better we become acquainted with some people the more we regret it.

Did you ever meet a man who didn't talk shop more than was necessary?

If a man doesn't know when he is well off he at least realizes when he was.

It took Noah 120 years to build the ark, and even then he forgot to install a gas range.

More than 500 vaudeville singers took the Come treatment last winter. Six of them are getting b. and b.

There are 2,618 grizzly bears in the state of Nevada, but very few of them realize what handsome fur coats they would make.

One firm offers to make you rich if you can save $10 per month, but offers no suggestions as to how you can save the ten bucks.

There are 8,789 horses in one New Jersey swamp, but as a rule none of them takes more than two lumps of sugar with coffee.

Sound travels at the rate of 15,520 feet per minute. In a small town gossip has been known to travel that distance in less than a second.

FOUL BALLS

A Scotchman tipping a waiter at a cabaret.

The grocer's boy who brings you maple sirup when you ordered a can of tomatoes.

The four-flusher at the office who insists on telling you all about how he cleaned up on the races.

Girls who stand up in the middle of a theater and look around to see how many of their friends are present.

The telephone operator who tells you that the line is busy so she can finish reading a chapter of her favorite novel.

Whoever it was who swiped the comic sheet out of the newspaper.

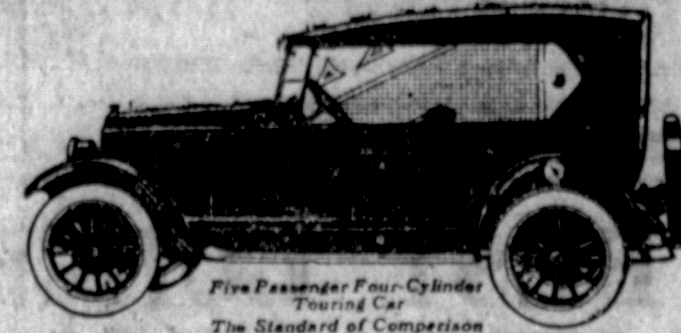

The editor who lost your 5,000-word story and then denied ever having seen it.

Mount Vernon Once "Epswasson." The original name of the estate called Mount Vernon was Epswasson, an Indian word, which was soon translated into its English equivalent, Hunting Creek.

(Only One Nomination Blank Allowed Each Nominee)

The awards are to be won on the basis of votes obtained by those competing. These votes are given on all subscriptions for The Decatur Daily.

All one has to do to gain votes is to get his or her friends to take the paper from six months to five years.

A Buick Four Touring Car awaits the one who gets the most votes. Then there is a Chevrolet Touring Car awaiting the next one who turns in the second highest number of votes. Third Grand Prize is a Ford Touring Car, which will be given to the person who has the third highest number of votes on the night of November 17. There are 12 Merchandise prizes.

Yes, and best of all, every active member is a sure winner, for the very least one can receive is a cash commission of 10 per cent on every dollar collected for subscriptions and turned in before Saturday night, November 17.

Each entrant is given 25,000 votes as a starter. The campaign is just getting under way and ends November 17.

Clip out the entry coupon and send it or bring it to the Campaign Manager and get started, for the campaign only lasts a few weeks more, but plenty of time is left to win any one of the prizes listed above. Now get busy and let's see what you can do. All of your friends are watching to see what you can do. Show them you are out to win. And if you do you will get all of their support, which will be a great factor in helping you win. These three cars are going to make at least three people happy on November 17, for it is just the time of the year that everyone goes motoring. Are you going along with the crowd? Or do you have to walk? You are your own boss; let's see what you can do.

1. Buick Four Touring Car	$1,100.00
2. Chevrolet Touring Car	$ 595.00

Amusements

of the most intricate stage effects ever devised is "The Loveland Express," which is the scenic piece in existence in Geo. E. Wintz's original production of "Venus" which is at the Masonic theater on Tuesday.

A full sized train of Pullman cars, with the Wintz corps of love-lorn passengers, departs from the station and winds its way among the hills, gradually appearing in the dim distance. This remarkable stage illusion is the result of many years of experience and the expenditure of thousands of dollars.

Nora Brown and Johnny Goetz, those two well-known stars of musical comedy, will be found heading "Venus," supported by several other prominent entertainers and a beauty chorus numbering twenty-four surpassing any in charm and comeliness. There are twenty-one unique and distinctive scenes in "Venus" the work of Earl Burgess, whose work at the Manhattan theater, New York has attracted world-wide attention.

The musical score by Charles G. Maynard and Duncan Peckham. The song hits are many, among which may be mentioned: "Venus," "South Sea Island Mood," "Girls, Girls, Girls," "Tut Tut," "Hello Miss Radio," "Polly Oh," "Beautiful Baby," "Oh Daddy Mine," "Here's A Winter Garden Doll for you" and "A kiss for you." The company carries its own special orchestra.

MASONIC THURSDAY

Rex Ingram's latest production for Metro, "Where the Pavement Ends," is coming to the Masonic theater on Thursday and Friday. It is a tale of the ways of romance in that last outpost of romance—the South Seas. In this thrilling and realistic photoplay is pictured how love came to the lonely daughter of a missionary. Here is all the exotic beauty of the Southern Isles—here is the essence of strange and heart-filling romance translated to the screen by a master director.

The exceptional merit of the production is also attested by the particularly notable cast. Alice Terry and Ramon Novarro play the leading roles. Miss Terry will be remembered for the rare ability which she displayed in "The Four Horsemen" and "The Conqueror Power." Mr. Novarro, Rex Ingram's latest screen find, won the highest praise of movie-goers in "The Prisoner of Zenda" and "Trifling Women." Edward Connelly and Harry T. Morey add new laurels to their distinguished reputations.

OSCAR UNDERWOOD
IN TOUR OF WEST

(Associated Press)
WICHITA FALLS, Oct. 23.—Senator Oscar W. Underwood, Alabama's Democratic candidate for the presidency of the United States, is to open his southwestern campaign here tomorrow.

Entering Texas at Dennison, he is due to arrive here about three o'clock this afternoon. Following an address here Wednesday night he is scheduled to proceed to Dallas where he will speak before a statewide Democratic meeting Thursday.

From Dallas his itinerary calls for addresses at Waco, Austin, San Antonio, Houston, Beaumont and possibly other Southern cities.

Methodists Will Meet at Capital

(Associated Press)
MONTGOMERY, Ala., Oct. 23.—Nineteenth annual session of the Alabama annual conference of the Methodist Protestant church, will convene in Montgomery, Nov. 7.

The conference composed of ninety churches, located in various parts of the state is expected to draw a large number of delegates, those arranging the program said.

Rev. T. C. Casaday of Montgomery has been president of the conference for five years in succession, and with the by-laws of the church said to restrain the election of one officer for more than five years in succession. Officers will be selected on the opening day of the assembly.

Among the visitors expected to appear on the program is Rev. Thomas H. Lewis, president of the general conference, Washington, D. C. while speakers in the conference to appear on the program are Rev. J. P. Morgan, Birmingham, C. D. Messer, Clanton, Rev. A. E. Maddox of Notasulga.

Topics of educational, missionary building, and church-growth will be prominently discussed, those in charge locally say.

One of the newest churches of the conference is now being erected at Capital Heights a suburb of Montgomery.

Candidates Must Speed Up for Mock Finish

(Associated Press)
Let's get it. It is only three more weeks until the mock finish.

In place of having the mock finish Saturday night, as was first planned, it has been postponed until next Tuesday night, Oct. 30, to give the candidates a chance to get in their reports, so it will bring them up on the list. Get in all of the votes and subscriptions that you have, if you want to be up near the lead. This will be the only mock finish, so try hard to be near the top because it will help you a lot.

HERE AND THERE

Bolivia has become the second largest tin-producing country in the world.

Pittsburgh, it is said, stands on ground once given in exchange for a violin.

Edward Jenner, who introduced smallpox vaccination, was a poet of merit.

Varick, an American surgeon, introduced the use of cocaine in capital amputations.

In Japan keys turn in their locks in the opposite direction from that customary to us.

A locomotive was imported from England in 1829 to serve as a model for American builders.

British coal miners returning to work after the long strike found their hands so soft they could not work.

The Colorado potato bug, dreaded in Europe for almost fifty years, has just made its appearance in France.

It is claimed that the African elephant can charge for a short distance at the rate of fifteen miles an hour.

Men haggard to plows are not an uncommon sight in Morelos, Mexico, because of the scarcity of beasts of burden.

Fifty farmers in the devastated area of Alsine have won prizes for restoring shell-torn land to its pre-war condition.

The notice, "Please close the door," appears in 14 different languages on the door of one of the public offices in London.

Preventable waste among broom manufacturers can be traced in many instances to the first steps in harvesting broom corn.

Miss Elizabeth Kyle, who won the Brook scholarship at the Irish bar in Belfast, is the first woman barrister in the British Isles.

Recently a man in England took out an insurance policy to cover himself against the birth of a daughter when he desired a son.

For the first time since 1914 a shipment of more than 1,000 game birds for stocking the game preserves of the West has come from Europe to the United States.

WISE MEN'S WORDS.

Testimonies are to be weighed, not counted.

A pleasant possession is of no value without a comrade.

Time spares nothing that has been done without him.

A sound mind in a sound body is a thing to be prayed for.

Those who praise you are of the worst class of enemies.

When liberty is gone life grows insipid and has lost its relish.

Quarrels would not last long if the wrong were only on one side.

A day, an hour of virtuous liberty is worth a whole eternity in bondage.

No inclinations are so fierce that they may not be subdued by discipline.

Similarity of manners is of more importance in friendship than relationship.

A woman seldom asks advice before she has bought her wedding clothes.

Time wipes out the fancies of imagination and strengthens the judgments of nature.

DEFINITIONS

Temperament. More than half temper.

Reticence. One of the rarest forms of sense.

Fame. Being known by a lot more people than you know.

Highbrow. One who thinks he knows more than you do.

Spinsterhood. A flirt's punishment for contempt of court.

Philanderer. A man who has the courage not to propose.

Faith. Believing the dentist when he says he isn't going to hurt.

Economy. A way of spending money without getting any fun out of it.—From the Boston Transcript.

BIRTHDAYS

The first two or three of them meant nothing in her young life.

Then she began to observe them.

Then she began to celebrate them.

Then she not only celebrated them but capitalized them.

Burns Memorized Before Writing.

Burns committed his poems to memory as he composed them, and when he sat down to write he had before him no labor of composition, but only the task of writing down what he had already finished.
